

While cruising through Strasbourg you can't get away without seeing one of the most important institutions of Europe, the European Parliament. On this picture you can see the whole parliament. In front of the latter, there are more than 27 flags representing the member states. On the right, there's a bunch of new skyscrapers. Here we are in the new central business district of Strasbourg named "Archipel". As represented on the picture, a tram is passing by, which is tremendously important for the travelers and for the planet, as public transportation helps decrease the amount of pollution made by cars. But mostly the Parliament building is huge and symbolizes the power of the European Union which has the power to vote laws chosen or suggested by the European Commission.